BARRY -
OF ALL THE PARTIES ON THIS CONTINENT - YOURS WAS THE VERY BEST. YOU HAVE GOOD STUFF. HAVE A GOOD ONE - I'LL SEE AROUND THIS SUMMER. GET HIGH
DIAL

Barry
Agreed with Dial you do have good stuff - ... in your head too - Take it easy. I know what a great guy you are & I don't want you to be another Michel
Love,
Marelyn

Barry,
Thanks for that chance to ride your motorcycle. But really the best part was before down in your room I mean "high" wise not what you think. Your Halloween party was the best your great with the jungle juice. See ya around.

There is a gentle stillness between the velvet starriness of night —

and the simplicity of day.

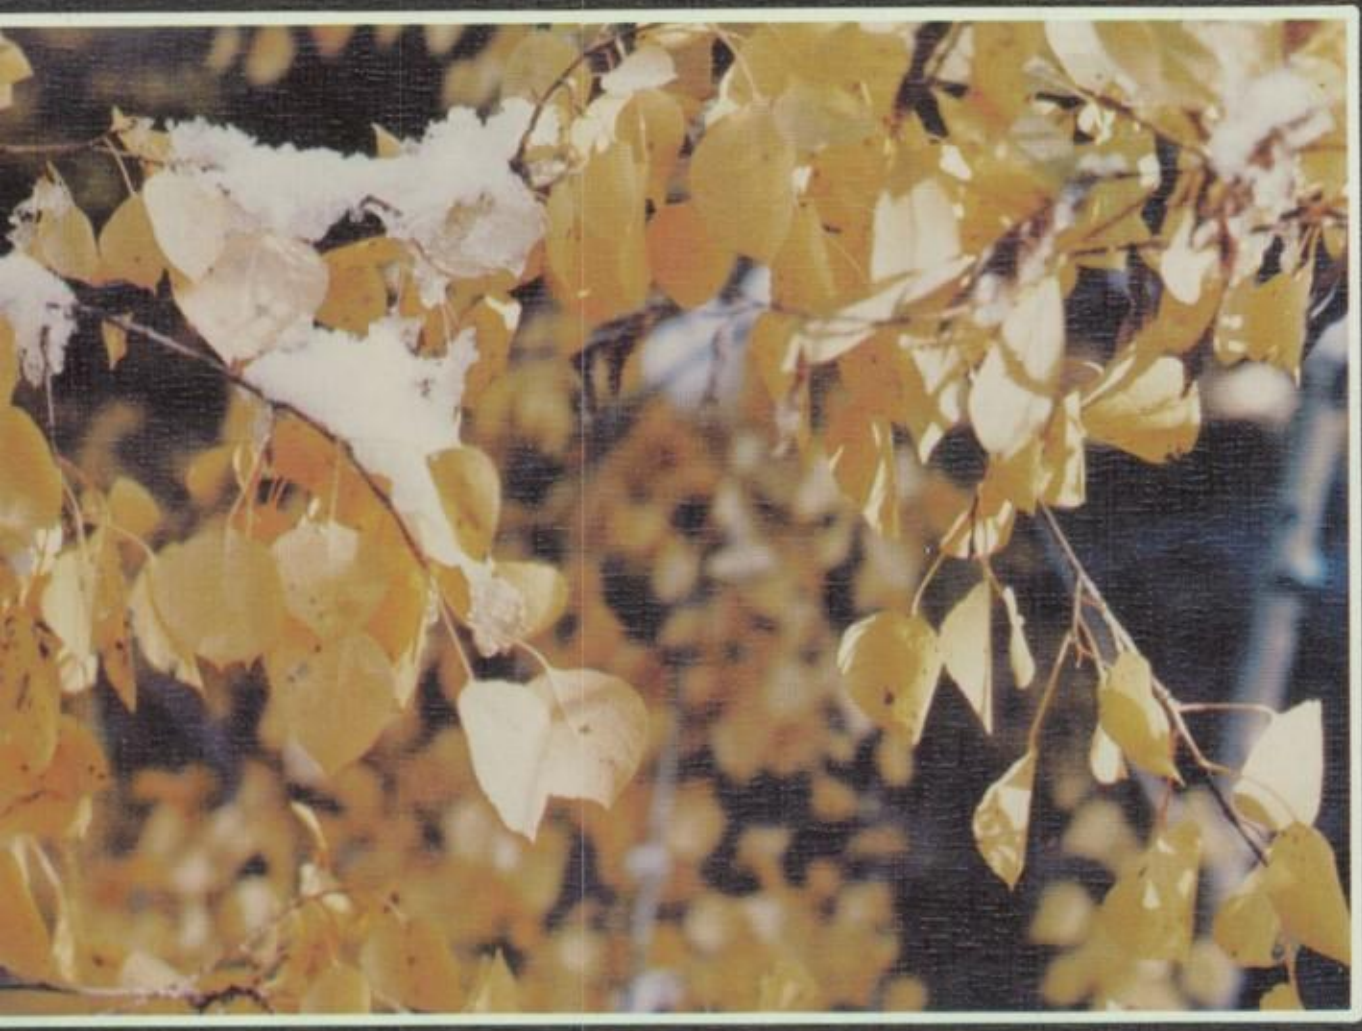
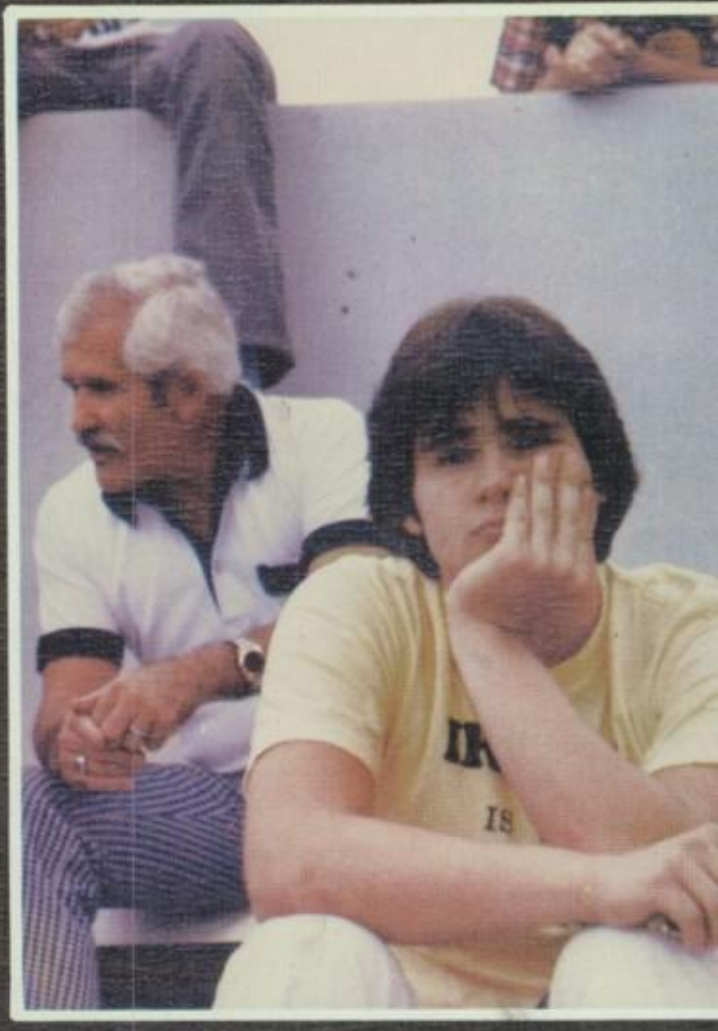
It is morning . . .

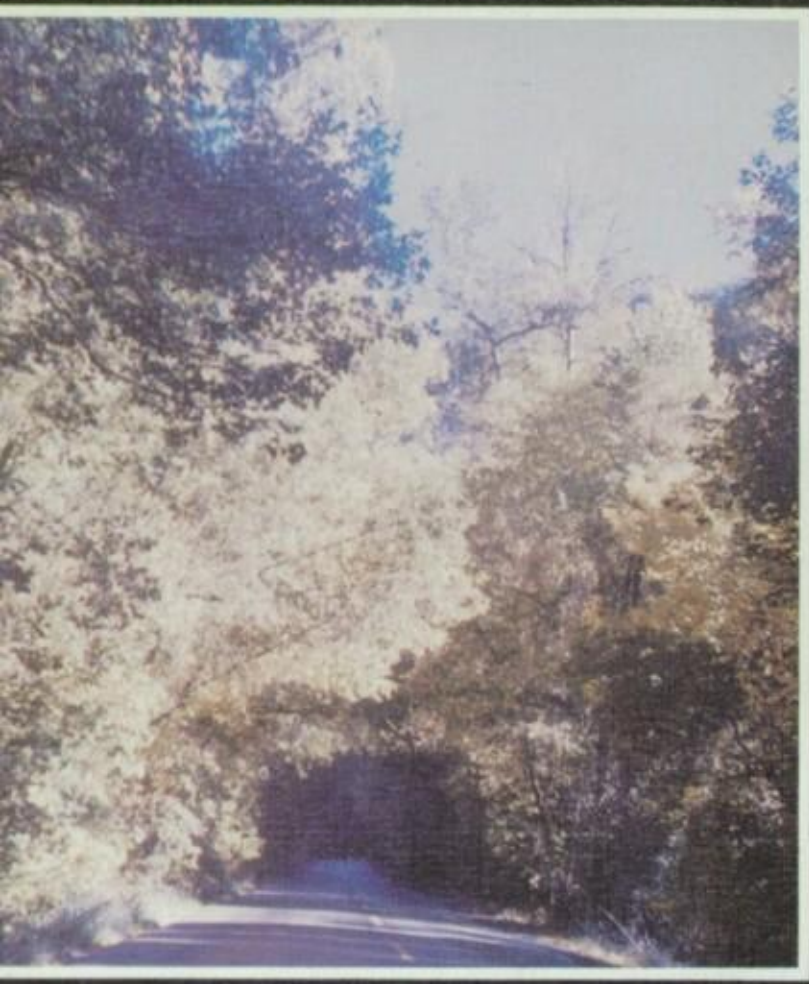
Anticipating the excitement of what can be, we plan our todays — knowing that they sketch the image of tomorrow. Actuality filters through and mingles with our anxious hopes. Suspended in the dimension of soft morningshine, we view a world of endless maybes.

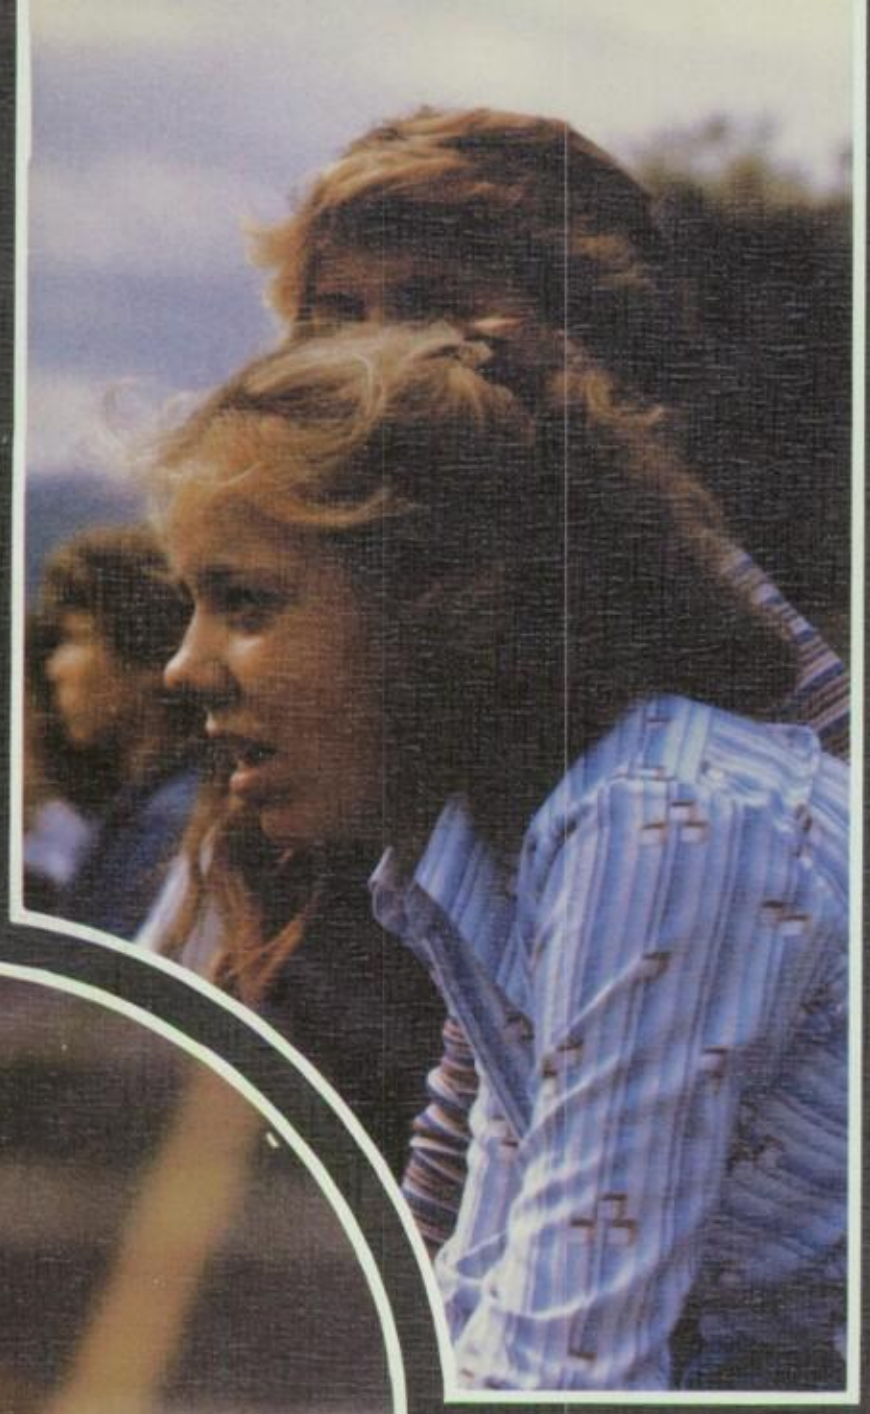
a time for awakening —



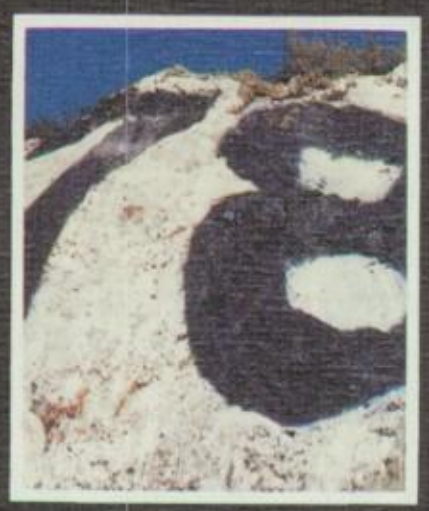


to perceive the possibility of forever





Within myself I hid another. A stranger to the world, an untouched child who slowly grew and became an intricate part of my existence. So much is contained in its life, but a time has come to separate myself from it.



and hold it wonderingly within our minds.

We glimpse the promise of tomorrow in the dawn of a sunbright day.

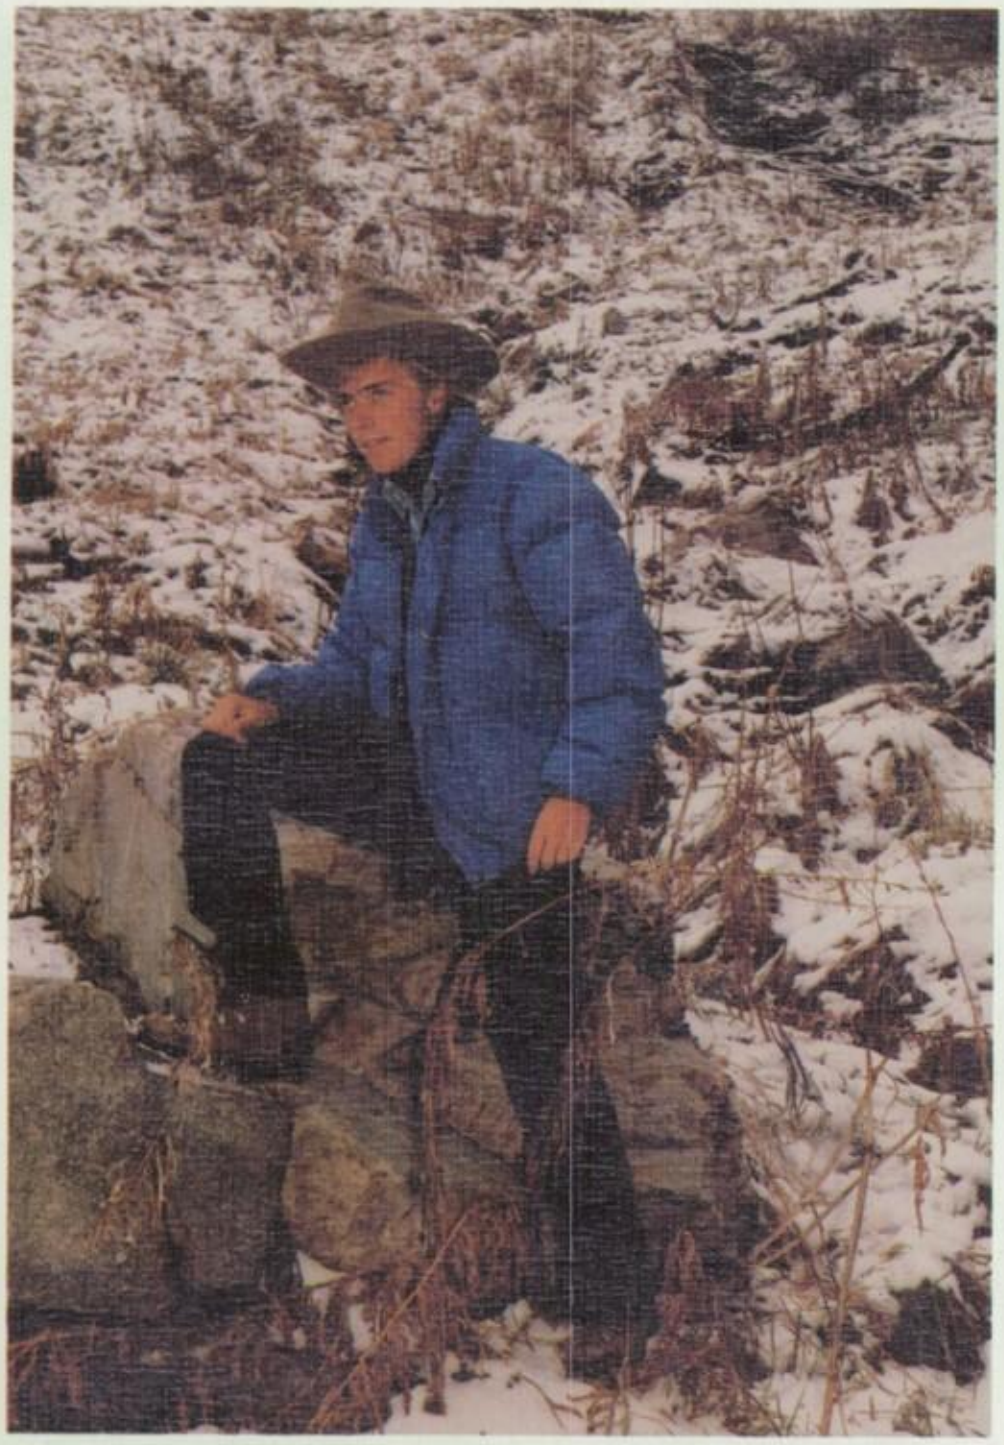
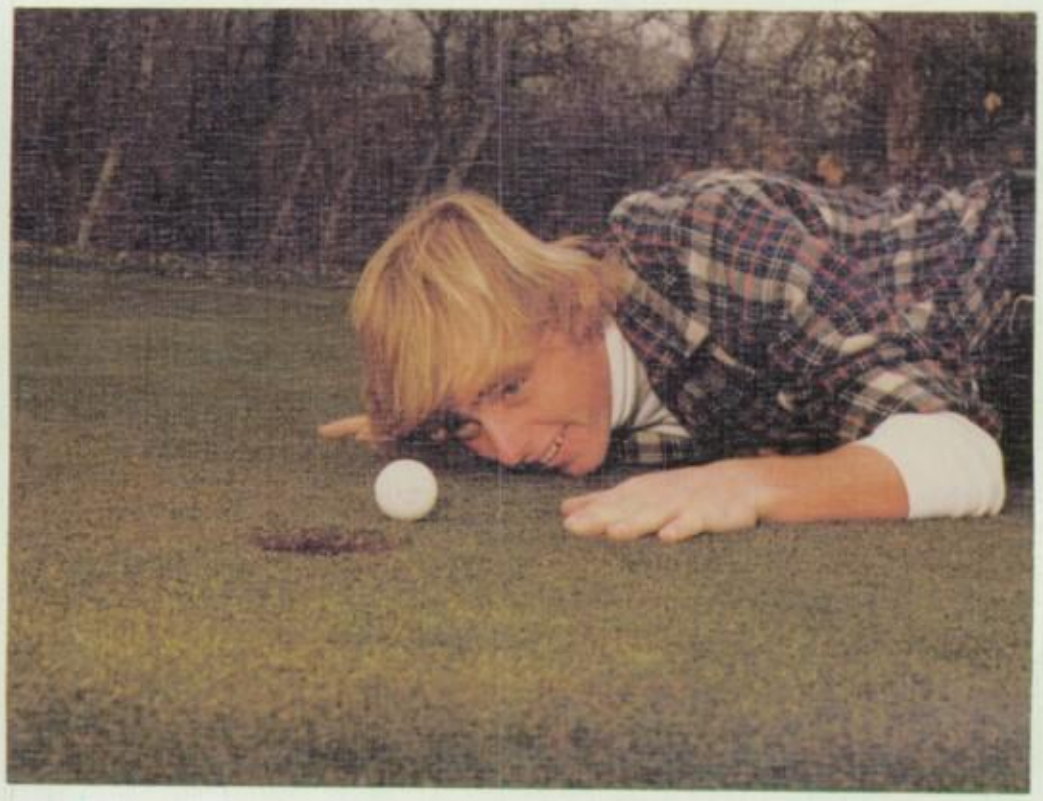
student body president





Highland:

Traditionally the Student Body President uses this space to briefly recapture in words his thoughts and feelings of the past year. But rather than doing this, I would like to change the format a little bit for the simple reason that constructive change, more than anything else, is what we have tried to accomplish this year.

Highland can and must always be changing because its needs vary with each student body. I hope that with each year you give to Highland many new ideas. With these ideas you should bring courage and enthusiasm to see them accomplished. I wish you the best of luck.

I will always be watching Highland, for I am forever a loyal Highlander.

Thank you,

John Bowen

student body officers

JAMES EBLE
Vice President

Strength is the word everyone associated with James. Although he was faced with some rocky situations, the "rebel" always took a definite stand and then fought his way through. By the end of the year our only question was; which came first — James or the egg?

JANI IWAMOTO
Secretary

This Japana Banana was purely individual and totally "injanious." Taking on life with its endless challenges, Mote managed to cope with both school and romantic affairs . . . a feat surpassed only by the ability to handle her classy roadster.

STEVE JONES
2nd Vice President

Silently suave and dashingly debonair — With lots of practice at changing from "madman" to S.B.O. to football hero, Steve found himself an expert at conversions. With a deep, princely voice and an inherent charm, he was afraid he might revert to a frog. Perhaps this is why he abstained from kissing.

ALICIA HALL
Historian

Her walk was a perfect match for her personality — carefree, confident, and energetic. "Sheesh" gave everyone that "I'm interested in you" feeling that made everyone become interested in her. We could be sure she was always outgoing and going out.

MARCI KIRK
Treasurer

When listening to Marci talk, we knew she'd be the ideal instructor for an Evelyn Wood speed-speaking course. But after overcoming the language barrier, we couldn't blame her for talking so quickly. She spoke three times faster than anyone, only because she had three times as many imaginative ideas.

h.a.w.

These feminine leaders, along with their committee, were able to liberate themselves and the other women from a sterotype of "common and typical." Their inventiveness kindled a desire to become involved in everything out of the ordinary.

Over the years, Highland Men have always been considered 'good lookers.' These three were no exception as they "ham"somely carried on this tradition. In selecting these officers we made a prime choice.

The election of this year's student senators instituted a new sense of responsibility within them. Under the supervision of experienced leaders, they analyzed many of Highland's problems and then contributed to lessening the communication gap between teachers, administrators, and students.

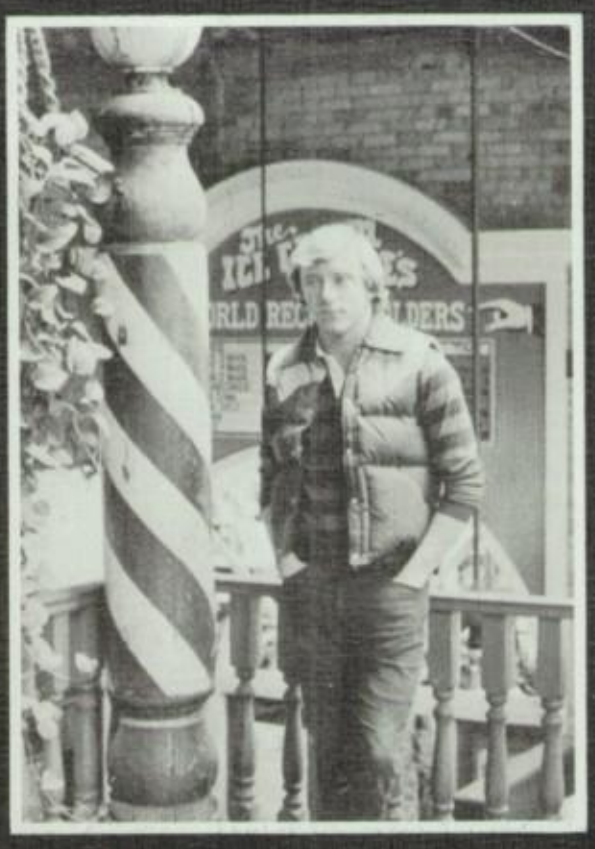
executive board

The unknown power of Highland. Seldom seen, they managed to make their silence heard. Many changes and attempted changes were proof of their existence.

senior officers

KEN HADLOCK
President

Levi straus and squeeky sneakers became Ken's trademark. His determination to see some senior spirit was evident when he organized the senior men and card sections. These efforts enabled him to gain the support and respect of his peers. He acted the part of 'ruler' well.



STUART McIVER
Vice President

A somewhat relaxed manner seemed to characterize Stuart, but his creativity was made evident in the devious ways he invited women to the dances. Apparently, his football injury didn't affect the productivity of his other "extracurricular activities."

STAN JACOBSEN
Secretary

Stan made the first successful senior sec. sex change in Highland's history. With the overthrow of a traditionally female office behind him, rumor has it that he commenced his duties by writing a bestseller: "Everything you ever wanted to know about SECS."

Talent, intelligence and creativity were all requirements for any honor and characteristics of all the recipients. Long hours spent studying since kindergarten for good grades, and test scores, culminated in recognition and praises. Not only were words the expression of admiration but many awards provided certificates and exciting scholarships.

KENDRICK BYTHEWAY
President

Kendrick was the kind of guy who could be very convincing in his own reserved way. From boasting about his prominent nose, to thoroughly breaking in a pair of Frye boots, it became clear that he wasn't going to let his serious side overbalance his ability to "kid around."

LINDA HAMMOND
Secretary

At first, Linda and Stella probably thought it would be easy to share an office . . . there'd be half the work and twice the fun! However, if anything went wrong, there'd be double the trouble! Combining incredible organizational skills, the two prevented any potential catastrophies and initiated unimaginable successes.

CRAIG WARR
Vice President

Craig helped enlarge the already giant junior class spirit, a very difficult task. He had a real feeling for all of Highland, as the Highland women had for him. His powerful voice could often be heard expressing his opinion.

Russell was the muscle that held up the sophomore class. His ability as a leader was especially evident at the games. As endless numbers of girls clustered around him, we could easily understand why his middle name was Love.

JULIE PANTELAKIS

As founder and most prominent member of the "Active Yackatives," Julie was unafraid to exhibit her incomparable zaniness. Through an anonymous vote, she was unanimously elected "Hyper of the year."

Sharon was 'just the sweetest' (at least in spirit). From her first date in a "Z" to her lasting influence as soph. sec., she managed to make the year count for the entire class.

As a second year of "hairilessness" at Highland passed, the sophomore "man" dejectedly watched another bottle of BRUT aftershave go rancid. With dream-filled eyes and an ample supply of razorblades on hand, he waited the day he could shave off his peach fuzz — but that day never came.

Seemingly satisfied with becoming just an ordinary class, the sophs were actually everywhere doing everything, before anyone else even noticed they had been missing. Although they cast the image of sophistication, they were really mischiefmakers incognito.

Even tho' they were freshmen no longer, the sophomore males were still missing something the older men had — years of experience and practice. The sophomore gals seemed to have discovered this at an early age and had been planning their attack on the Senior Jocks for as long as they could remember.

RICHARD HOPKINS
President

Richard Hopkins was the "Little Big Man." Perhaps Richard was small in size and age, but he certainly had an enormous spirit and energy. His knack for raising a smile with his witty antics made him everyone's favorite little brother.

JOANN GARFF
Vice President

With such expressive eyes and darling taste in clothes (especially her freshman officer sweater), it's no wonder that Joann charmed the entire freshman class. Her excited attitude and enthusiasm helped her find many good friends.

PAM STEVENS
Secretary

Clad in a dazzling smile and self-assured manner, Pam was the kind of knockout whose inner beauty was synonomous with her outer good looks. She showed her devotion by working hard and completing everything she started. P.S. She always had something extra to add.

Adjusting to high school life was a devastatingly traumatic experience. Disappointed cries of anguish filled the halls, as freshmen learned that both Ranger Ted's annual visit and the Halloween Dressup Parade were nonexistent at Highland. Fortunately, they centered their attention on new activities. Exerting a continual supply of energy, these pintsized powerhouses proved to be the most devoted supporters of the 'Mighty Ram!'

Coming up with a name for freshie females posed quite a problem. But when the expression "freshwomen" was finally discovered, all (especially the Senior Women,) agreed that it was the perfect title. Freshwomen were definitely fresh women.

It's startling to think of the way we felt on our first day here . . . Is my outfit OK? . . . What if I can't find my next classroom? . . . Mrs. who? . . . What's a blueslip? . . . Jock Hall? That . . . set of stairs leads where? . . . Now these questions seem so insignificant — it's probably because they've been replaced by new ones.

dr. handley

To the Class of '78, I extend my warmest and most heartfelt congratulations. This has been a truly successful school year.

Your leadership, courage and determination served in numerous areas of endeavor. May your accomplishments, and those of your under classmen, serve as a stimulus to propel each of you in more fully developing your talents, abilities, and potential. We, at Highland High School, are proud of you!

Donald D. Handley

mr. linford

For twenty-one years Highland High School has exemplified excellence in the field of education. The Ram spirit still inspires each one of us to excell — to improve our capabilities and to achieve our maximum. This is the true meaning of Highland.

A. Merrill Linford

mr. harwood

Watching the basketball team play one evening the thought came to me of the number of hours they spend practicing. This thought expanded to include the football team, debators, school play, dance club, pep club, etc. — all the time spent by a great number of students who give their time to Highland. Many of this same group and others put their time in on their studies to aid Highland's academic standing.

All in all there is a large number of students who go the extra mile for Highland, and as an administrator, I would like to give my sincere thanks to this fine group.

Mothers and fathers of many Rams joined together to make their voices heard. Chaperoning dances, and informing all of Highland's parents of their children's activities, were just part of their busy schedule.

board of education

Structured in such a way as to include all those who "have an important say in Highland," and "whose say is important to Highlanders," the board dedicated themselves to provide the best educational system possible.

cafeteria ladies

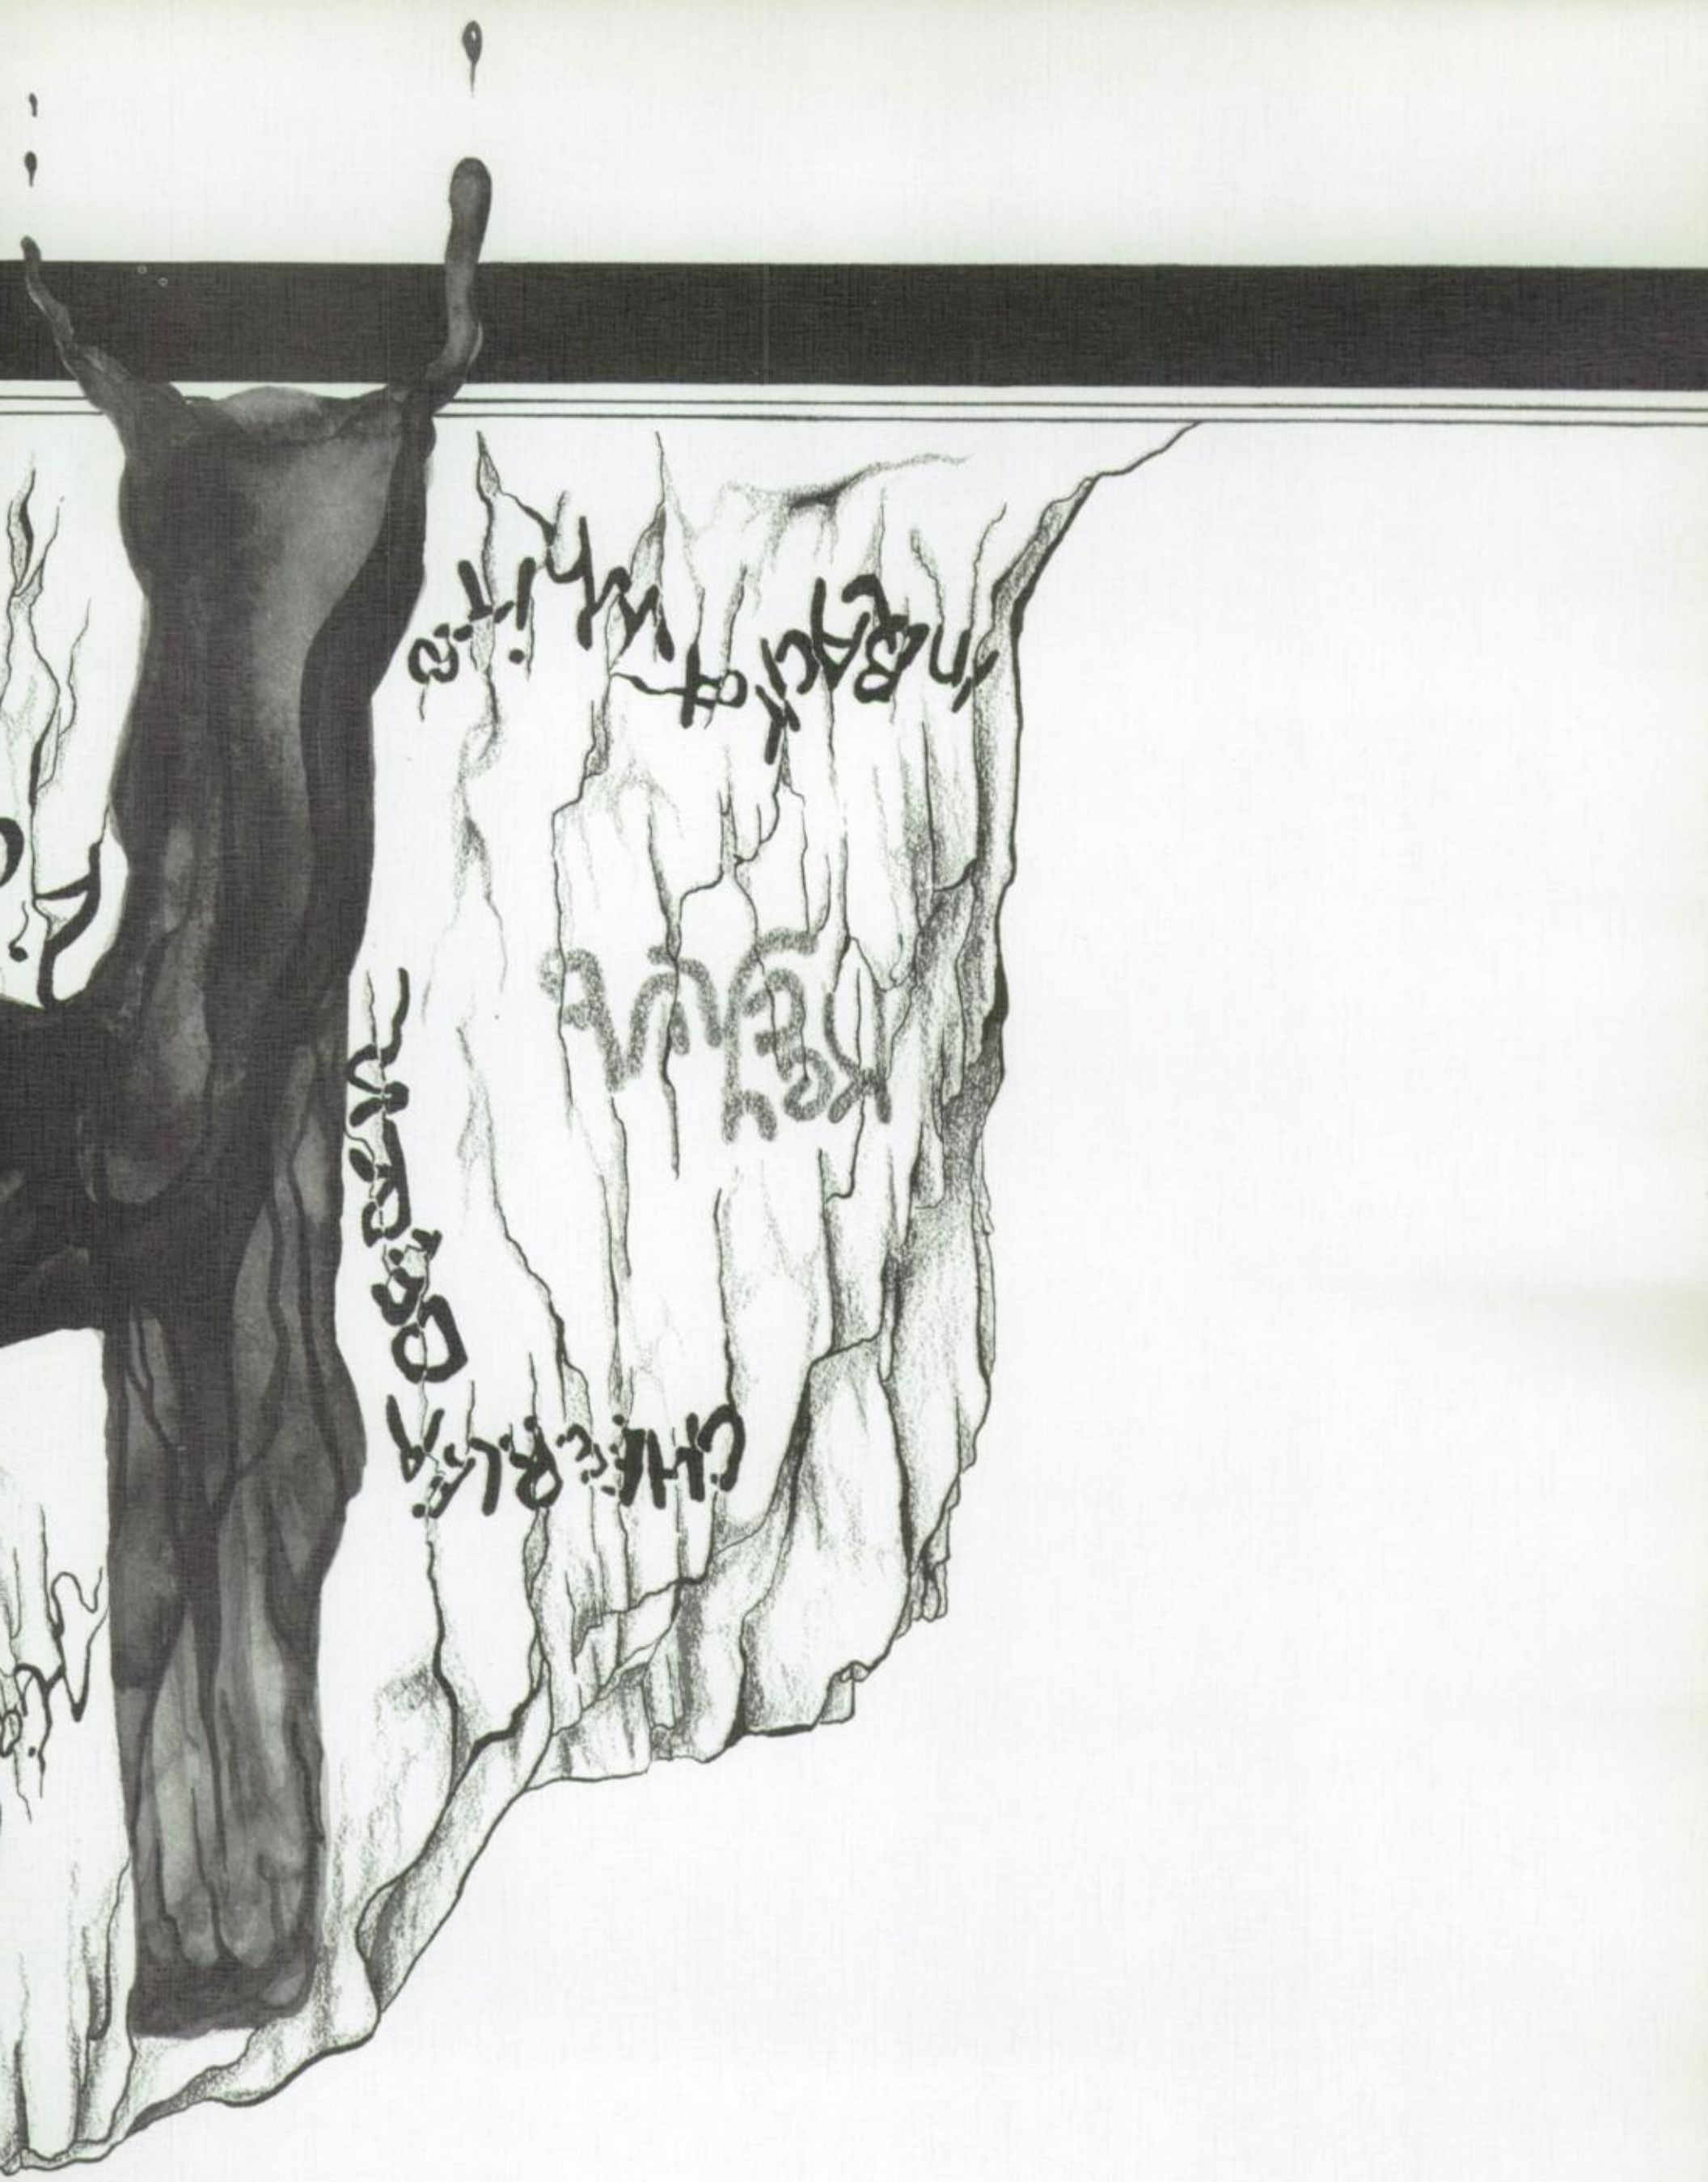
In their white 'unis' and plastic gloves, the cafeteria ladies happily served hungry student bodies. As the aroma of their famous sweet rolls and other goodies tantalized our tastebuds, we even became willing to stand in long lines of lunch-munchers.

Row One: Janice Miller, Dorothy Coombs, Pauline Lee, Wilma Dekker, Frieda Garnham. Row Two: Lucille Cochran, Joyce Mikkleson, Linda Butterfield, Darlene Edelen, Joan Aiken, Ruby Hansen.

building engineers

John Von Domberg, Angie Akkerman, Ben Perkins, Bruce Henroid

Without these dedicated helpers, what would Highland look like? Unidentified "gum-wrapper-throwers" and "lunch-sack-dumpers" could have made it impossible to wade from one class, to another, but the janitors and matrons kept everything 'spic 'n span.' Thanx for your pride in doing such a fantastic job!



ORGANIZATIONS

cheerleaders

Mini Morgan

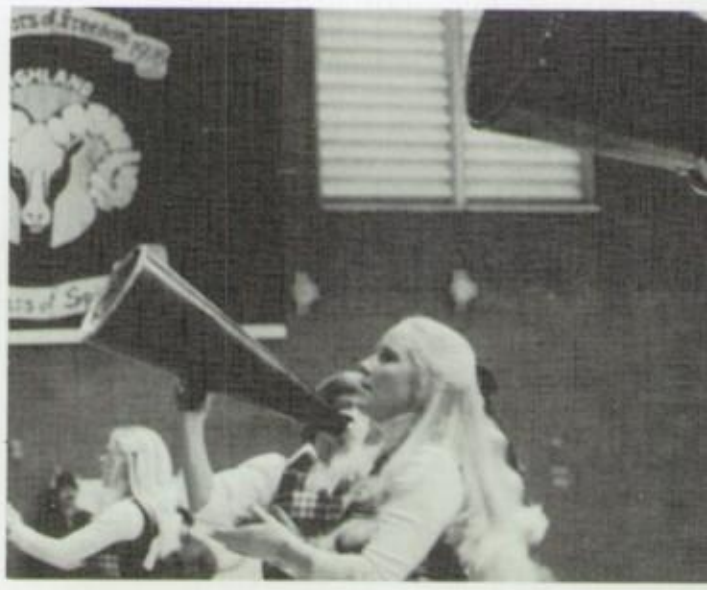
There was a certain distinction in being the one and only cheerleader capable of leaping five lengthwise bodies and still landing on the floor. Mini's gymnastic ability made him an instant hit at all the games, and for half-time entertainment. Always ready, willing, and able, he initiated much excitement in the bleachers.

Jane Nilson

One of the athletic department's "secret weapons," used for distracting the opposing team's attention, was Jane's long ivory hair. With her terminally hoarse voice and uninhibited nature, she captured everyone's fascination. (A persuasive insistence roused cheers from even the most resistent onlookers.)

Wes Hansen

An almost demonish smirk let us know that Wes had been up to another of his mischievous escapades. Whether gallivanting aimlessly about or pursuing a lofty ambition, he maintained an entirely unique style. With great vitality, Wes led the fans in 'Hold 'em', his favorite cheer during and between the games.



Jolene Nance

Her unpretentious manner enabled Jolene to relate to everyone. That reassuring wink or encouraging word was all it took to make the players and spectators feel her sensitive awareness. By watching her throughout the year, we knew that somehow she added that extra spice to the light side of living.

Jay Aldous

Jay "bent over backwards" to show us his loyalty, and fell "head over heels" into many situations in which he promoted an atmosphere for triumph. He raised the level of loudness — by inadvertently motivating the pep clubbers. Involved in Highland, his efforts set the pace for improvement.

Bonnie Barker

You could always hear Bonnie above the noise in the crowd, probably because singing so much gave her good support and a strong diaphragm. How she could scream so louldy and still create such melodic sounds was beyond our knowledge. They must have invented the phrase 'nobody does it better' exclusively for 'Bunz.'

It was hard to believe how quickly such a large gathering of supposed peacemaking referees could be transformed into an assembly of masterful con artists. Evading the approach of deadlines which continually hung over our heads, we claimed to be victims of circumstances and then proceeded in framing our editors; unfortunately, the only logical place for their pictures was the well-known dart board. With the final product unearthed, our sentences over, we broke out at the Dusk of an Awakening.

Rambler was the publication that kept the studentbody informed on current events and issues. The variety of personalities on the staff brought in an assortment of specialties and talents. They took the responsibility of reporting seriously, and brought new insights to the students. Headlines were set, and deadlines were met.

Solutions to school and local problems came readily when Key Club members set out to "decipher the matters." For a brief period of time, a few of these men could have been called skeptical chauvinists, but the four liberated females proved to be artistic assets on rock painting trips and repainting trips, which, to their disdain, sometimes occured the next day.

Compensation for the dreaded rehearsals which were spent counting rhythms, perfecting technics, and memorizing music, finally came. The emotion, intensity, and exhaustion which made the concert possible, were quickly forgotten with the great success of the performance.

A row of fifteen girls in puritan dresses and a flock of male penguins combined to madly rehearse and then perform for many receptive audiences. A beardless Santa with his merry christmas pillowslip, secret rendezvous at 'Wendy's' and excited exclamations of 'wassail wassail' . . . all are recollections they're sure to retain in the years to come.

Rhyming ad libs, pieces that took a week just to sight read and shaking heads signified the Jazz. With dress patterns that matched East High Madrigals' and a song in their hearts, they managed to make even the hardest harmonies sound gorgeous. Remember, you can always pick your friends, and Jazz seemed to have some of the best.

Mr. C's vast musical expertise, his insistence on perfection, along with a few exclamations of "gosh darn it" compelled the choir to buckle down and really concentrate on music. Once we were able to get beyond the first five minutes of class everyone was usually "talked out" and ready to sing.

Basic training came easily to this crowd of soon to be A'Capella. Under Mr. "C's" excellent training they also learned many difficult teachings; such as how to get to class on time, how to sit (and sing) by the opposite sex, and, most important of all, those absolutely necessary vowels tay tah tay.

Since this group of "Krauts" knew some German, they tried to lead us to believe that they were official by saying words like "dummkopf," while lifting their beer steins high. The fact that the club was organized is commendable since they had to struggle through the year without a teacher.

It was a very tiring battle but this group of conquistadors finally managed a victory over this exciting second language. Starting from one to ten and proceeding to a proficiency in whole sentences, Spanish Club proved that they were 'numero uno.'

Beginning their season in the middle of the summer, the football players started workouts at 6:00 a.m. Dedicated attitudes, as exemplified in their motto "Rams Believe," combined with the new coaching staff's desire to build a winning program, produced a team which became so involved in the game that an abundance of injuries, along with a chance in the playoffs, resulted.

With the goal of State in mind, Highland's basketball team fought their way to victory after victory. Soon enough winning became easy and success was the only word mentioned in connection with their games. Excited fans were always cheering 'two points,' and there was a large attendance at every game. These players drew more crowds than any R-rated movie in town.

Highland's baseball players were always ready for a little action; with gloves in hand, they spent their time playing the field. Although they were fast moving all-American men, some confessed that their interest in the sport originated in the childhood hobby of trading baseball cards.

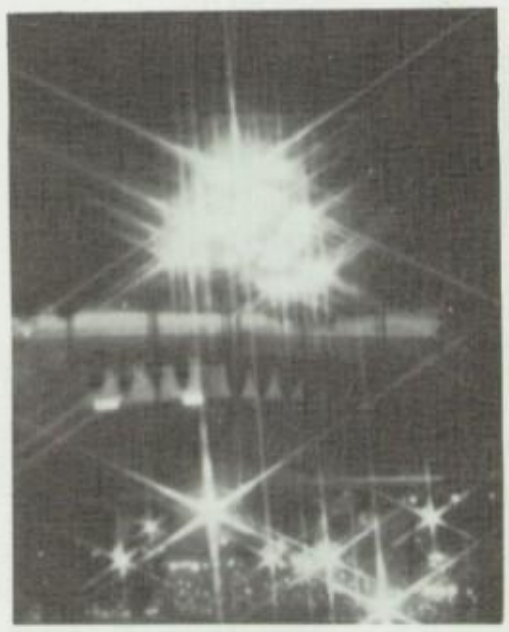
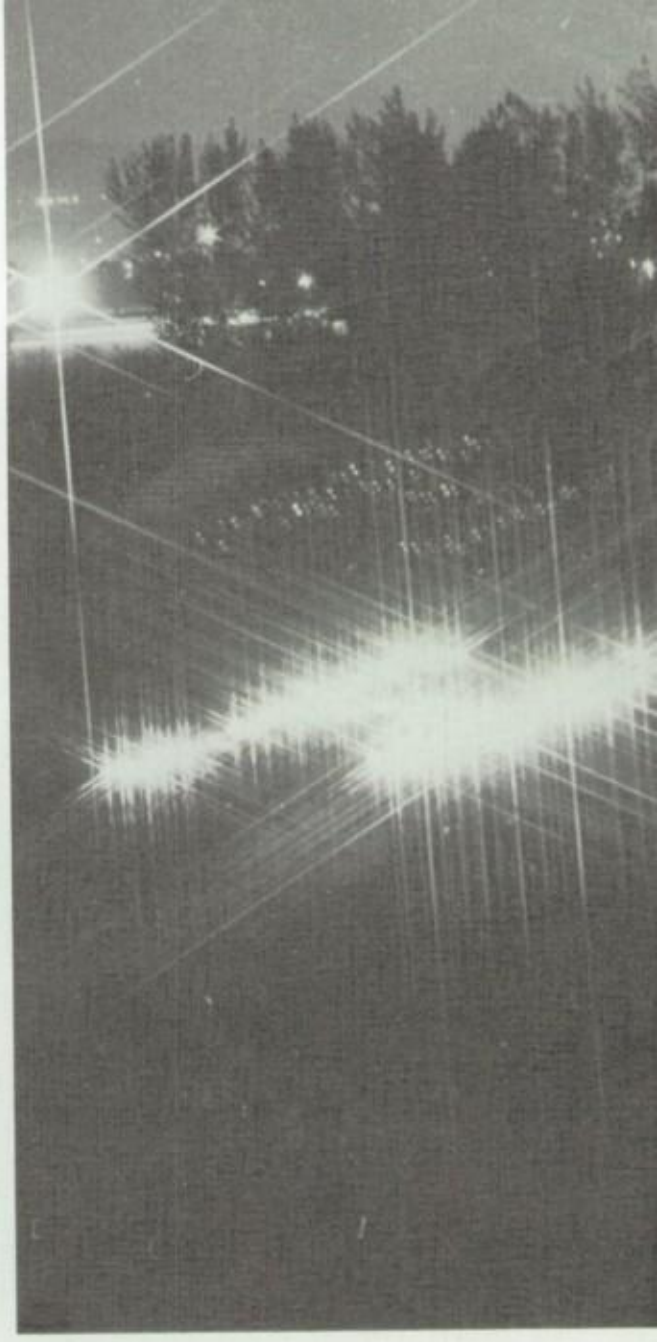
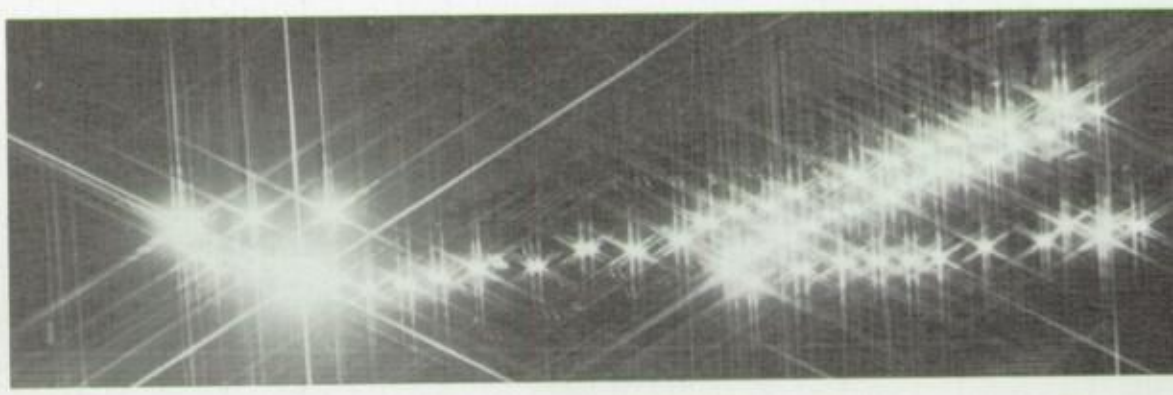
ACTIVITIES

pre-school rally





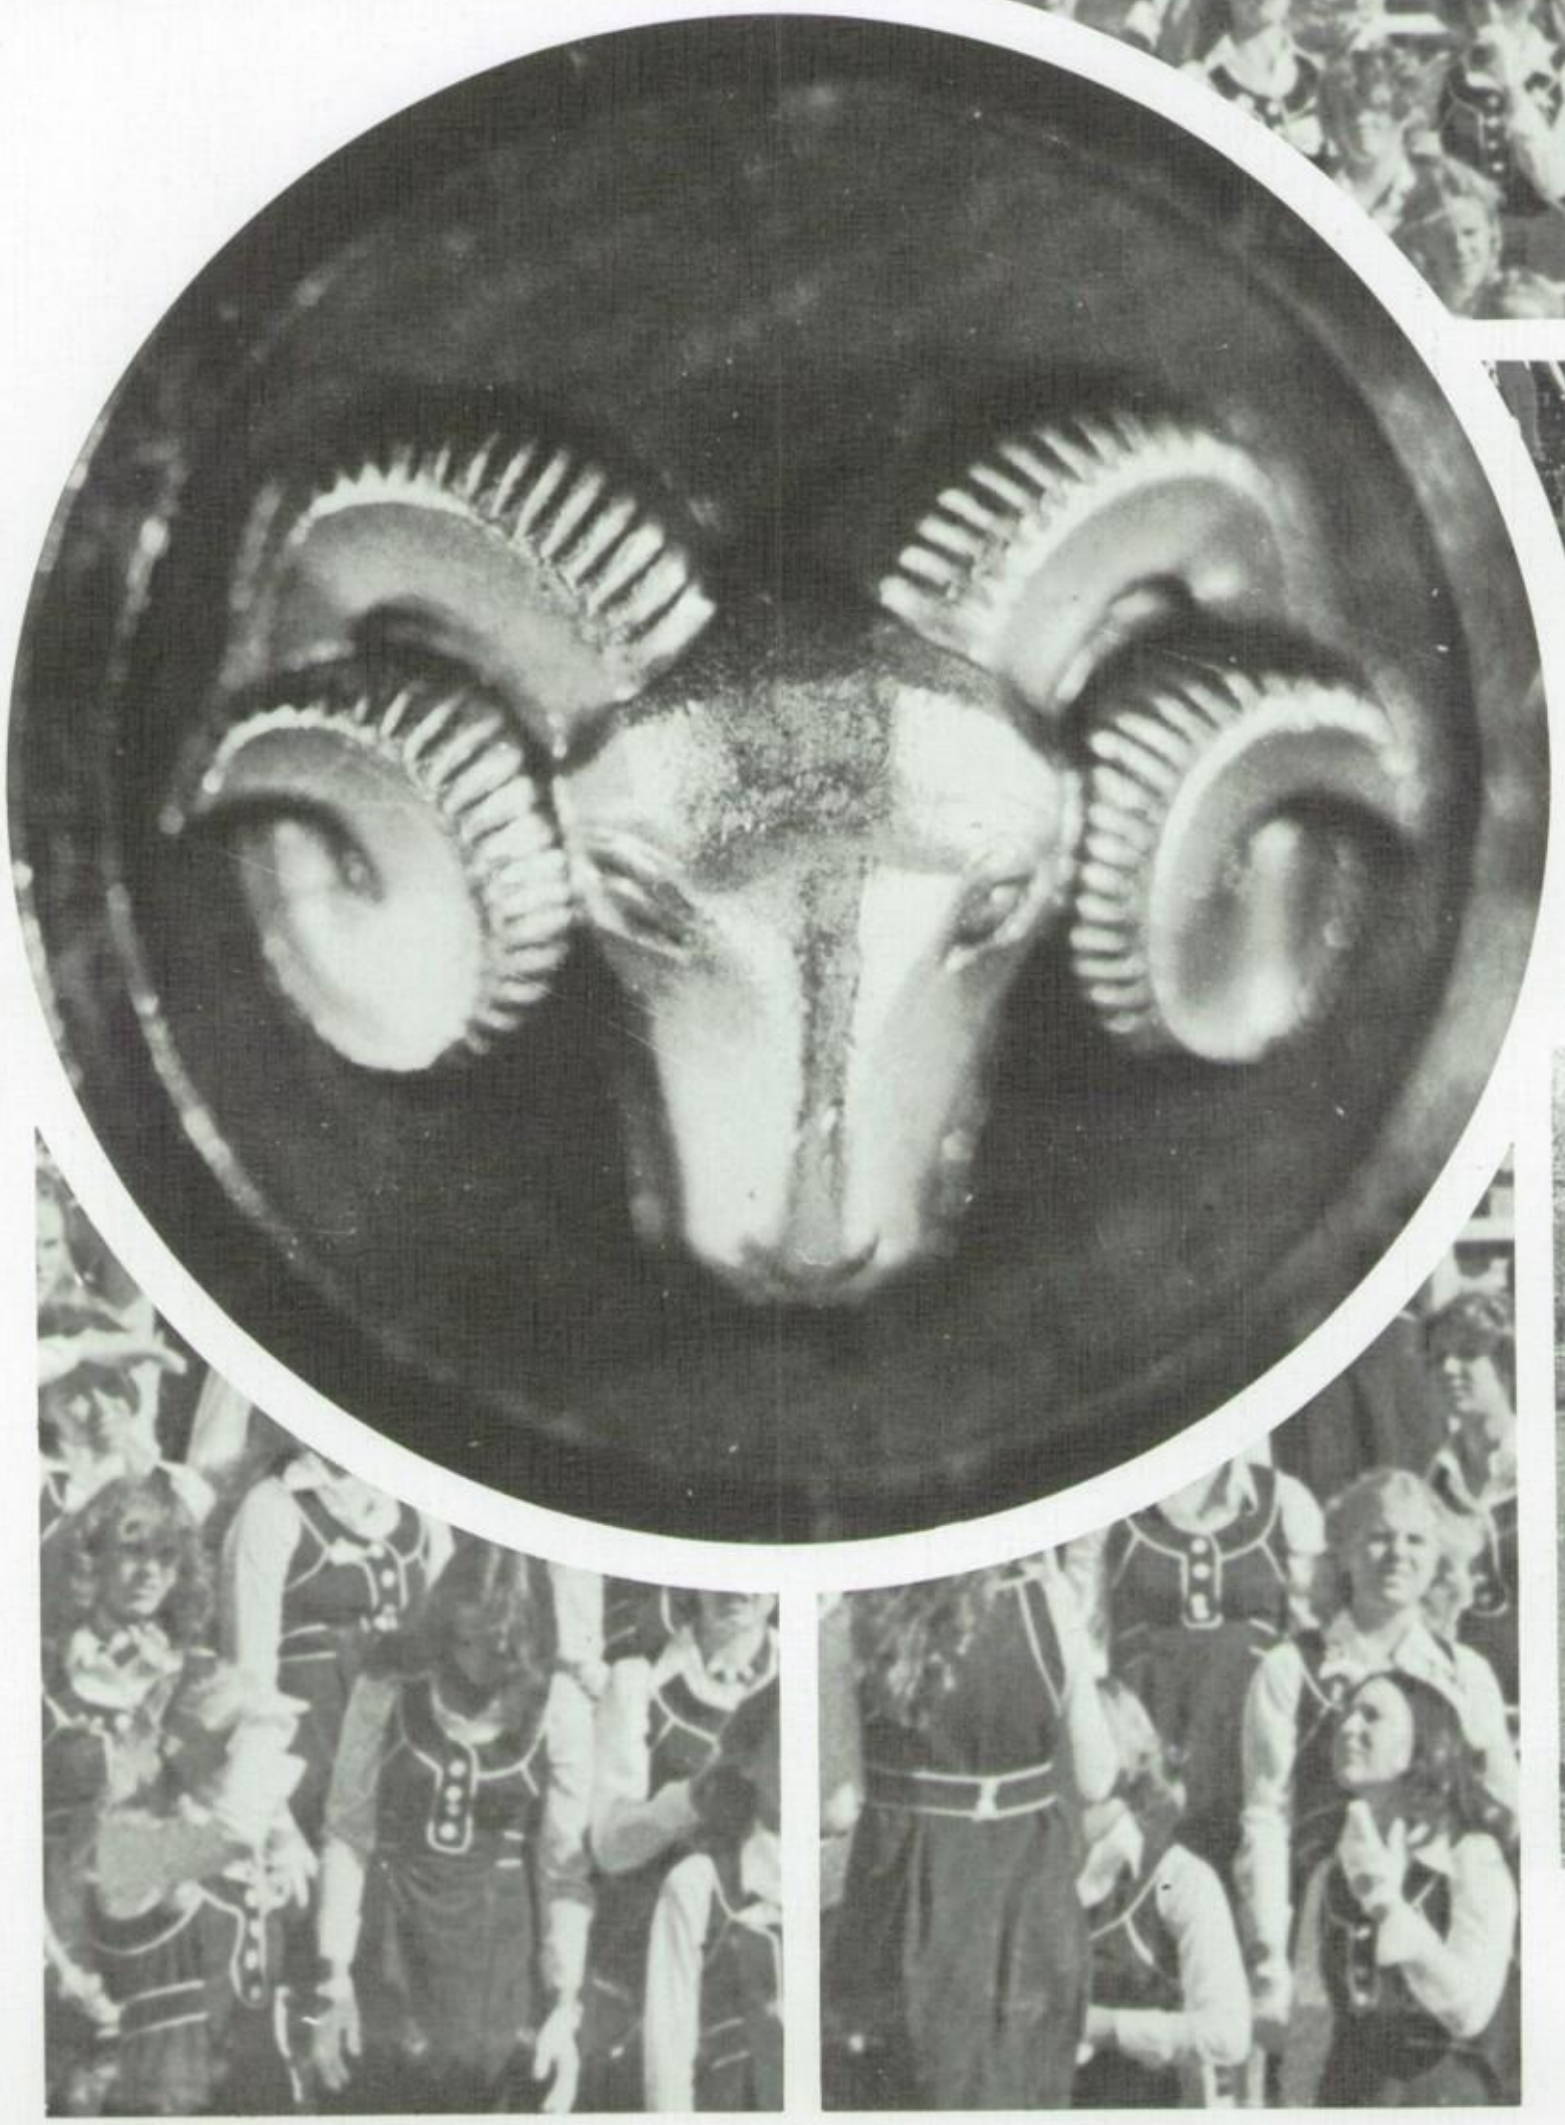
The preschool rally was a time of introduction for some and reunion for many. Besides being the setting for the debut of this year's S.B.O.s, Pep clubbers, and football players, the occasion was an excellent opportunity to compare summer tans.



hello day

'What big eyes we all had," while watching little Ram Riding·hood and all the gang. It was the first assembly of the year, and the officers "Did it with class."

homecoming



A cold autumn day was warmed by the high-strung emotion generated when alumni once again filled the halls. While they were "Reflecting Back" on their alma mater, current students were able to observe some of their ideals, with the intent of "Shining On" in the Highland Tradition.

GIRLS' LAST CHANCE DANCE
Haw Dance

The high percentage of attendance at our dances was evidence of their widespread appeal. Although Cupid may have had other intentions, his arrow of love was known to have painfully penetrated the foot of an unwary partner in the form of a crushed instep. No one could possibly stake a claim on being another Ginger Rogers or Fred Astaire, yet it was soon discovered that having two left feet could be an advantage; that way even the freshmen had no worry about which foot occupy which shoe.

Mr. A's choice of these two plays provided a good contrast in script and effect. It's 'down-home' style gave 'Our Town' a rare warmth, while the 'kidstuff' idea behind 'Charlie Brown' was a refreshing change. Working towards a common goal, the talented drama students displayed many theatrical abilities and versatility in their performances.

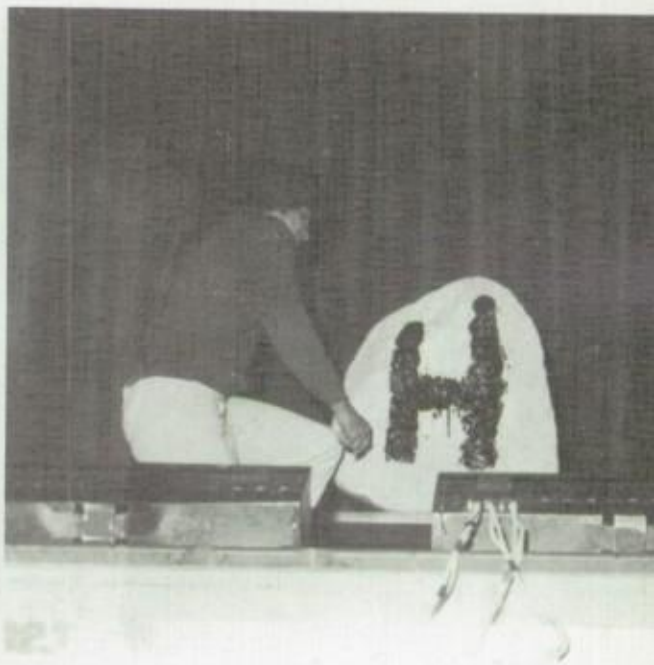
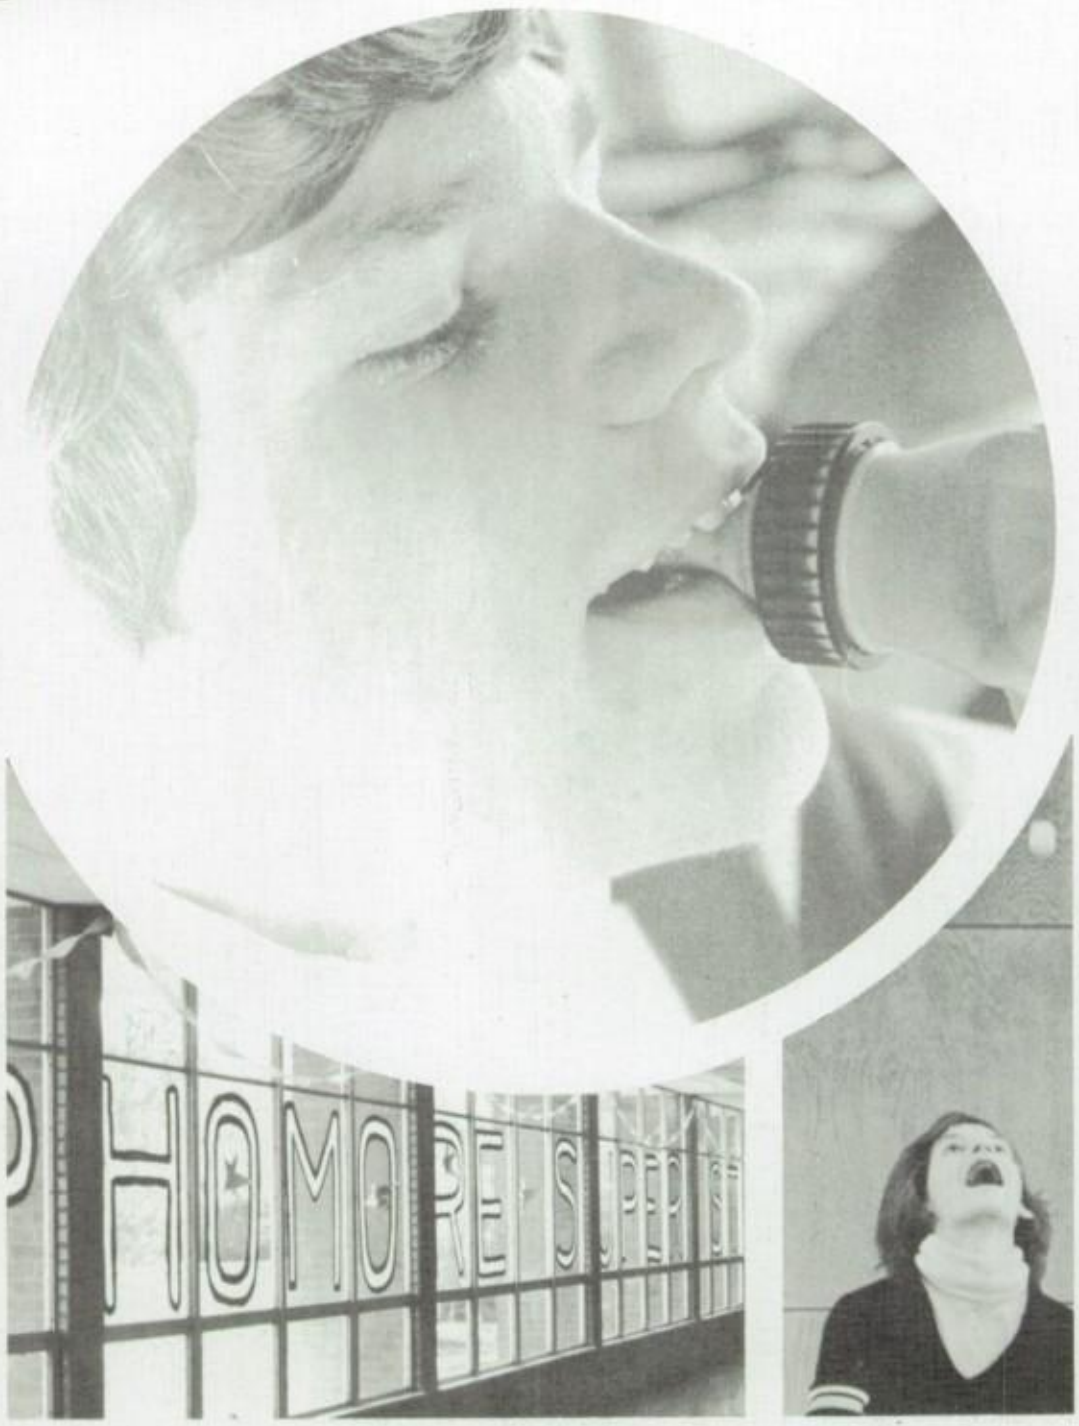
assemblies



Highland's own "Broadway" drew mixed crowds and varied reviews. Some shows enjoyed long runs and thunderous applause — a few raving successes were even revived on later occasions: One thing, for sure, was that no matter who was in the audience they were always entertained.

spirit week



Even tho' Highland is always abounding in spirit one week is dedicated every year to increasing that spirit to an intense peak. There were special events like a movie and the thrilling battle of the classes. The juniors were the winners of that big contest. The week was an absolute success and Highland has never experienced such spirit in her entire career.

Freaks and weirdos of all kinds were seen roaming about Highland on this day. Any freaked, frazzled or frizzed head of hair could turn around and be someone you knew. This gave us a chance to come to school looking as ugly as possible but having a good reason for it. Everyone was relieved when all those curls were washed down the drain and everything was back to normal the next day.

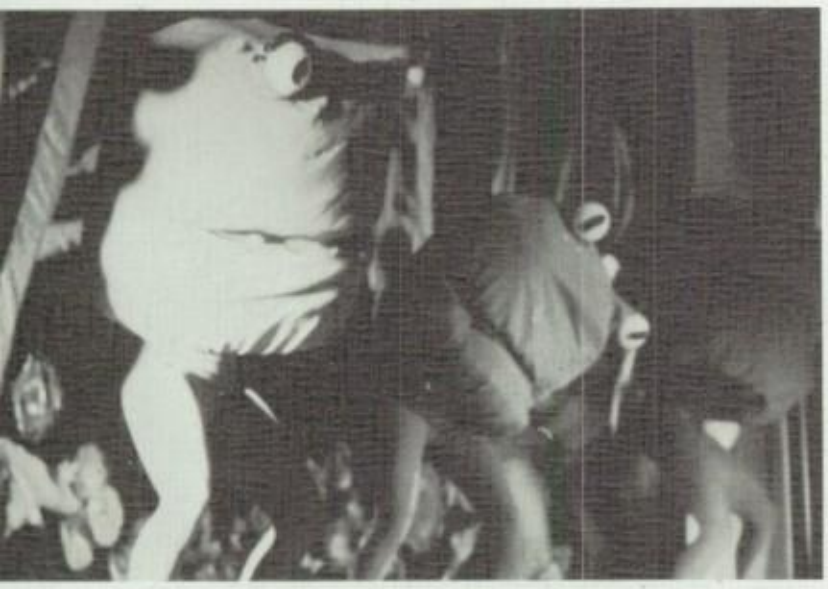
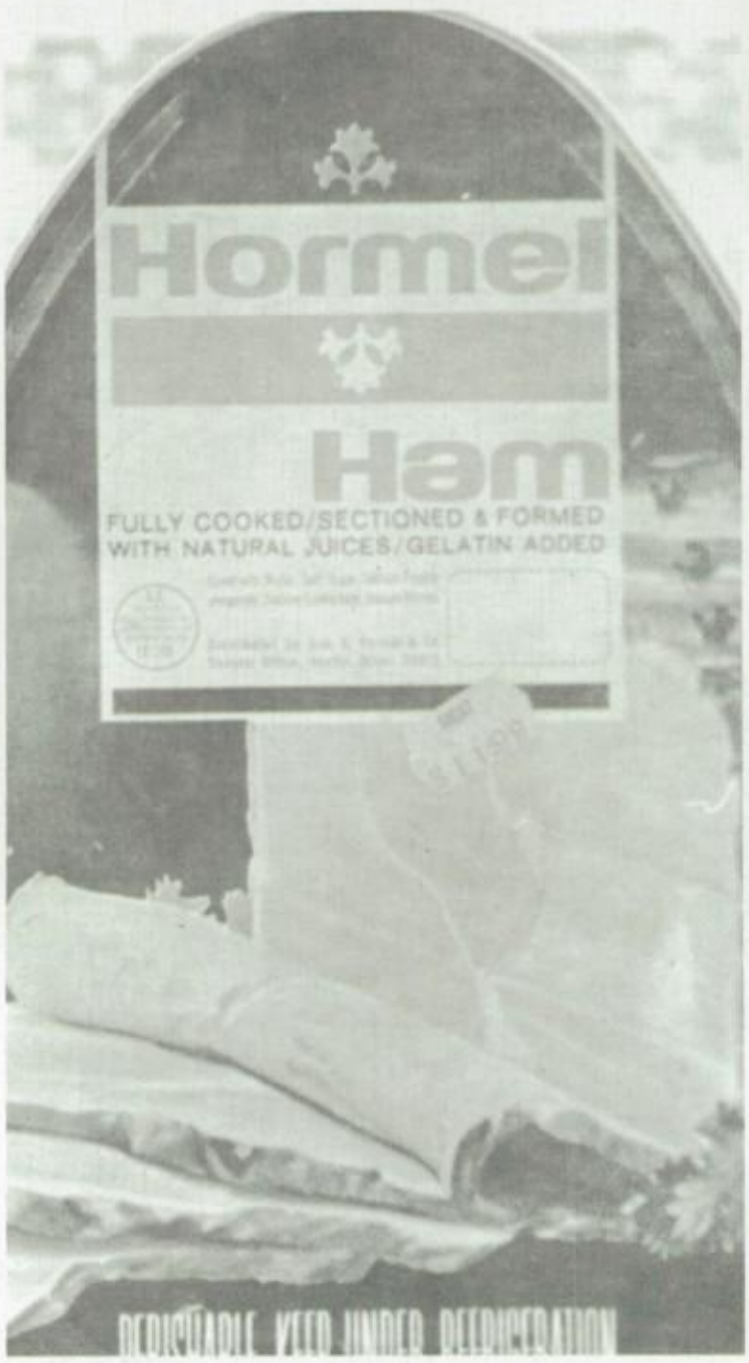
Projecting in abstract, classical, comedy, variety, and traditional pieces, our dancers maintained the performance quality expected from Highland's productions. Since it was Mrs. Dunlap's last year, the club members gave it their all to make sure that she went out with a bang!



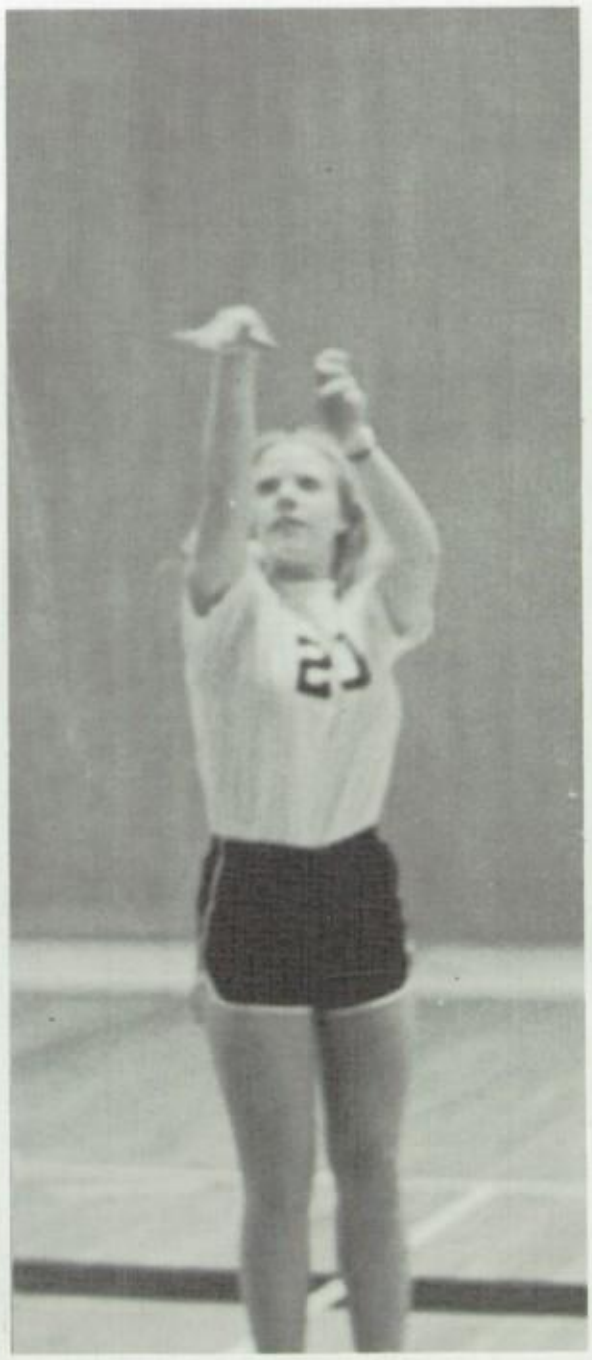
dance concert

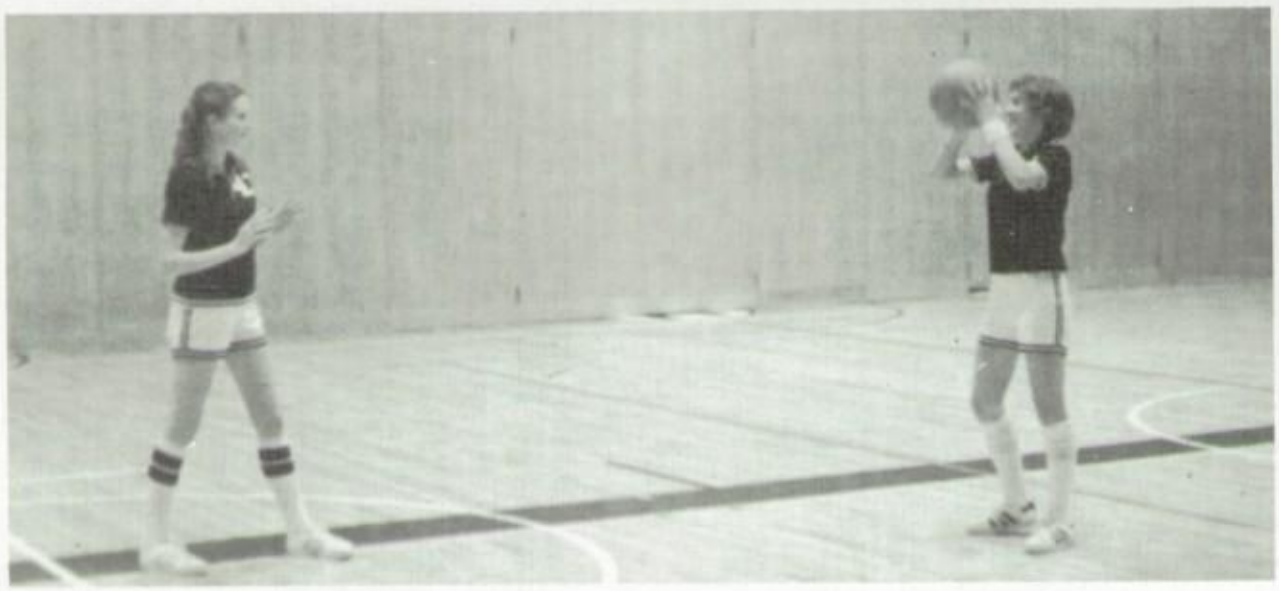
h.a.m. and h.a.w. activities



This year both the HAW and the HAM officers worked especially hard to come up with some diversions which could appeal to everyone. Secret fantasies came true when a sampling of Highland women were given the opportunity to try their hand at modeling. With quivering smiles and self conscious walks, they discovered that it wasn't as easy as it looked. When the men decided that the women weren't the only ones who could plan effective outings, they came up with one of their own, and invited Jerry Pimm to fill the night with basketball.

girls' week





February 6-10th became more than just an ordinary school-week. It was an occasion to give secret carnations, attend 'Down-hill Racer,' and watch both the boxing-glove b-ball team and a new marching group make the debuts. After five well-planned days, the women climaxed their activities with the excitement of the 'Girls' Last Chance Dance.'

lagoon day

After the hectic schedule of school has died down, and spring fever has become summer delirium, we delighted in the remedy of diversion. Lagoon Day is an anecdote for sluffing.

yearbook day

Writers' cramps and brain cramps — somehow they restrain the emotions which we feel so clearly. We long to express ourselves, yet are unable to communicate our thoughts in simple black and white. In each pen there are words which wait to be written. Why is it so hard?

Suddenly
I find myself hesitant to release this
"season of my life"
which has become so much "a part of me."
In a moment of awareness,
I realize the security which is mine and visualize the dreams
which may become.
Not wanting to go,
Not wanting to stay,

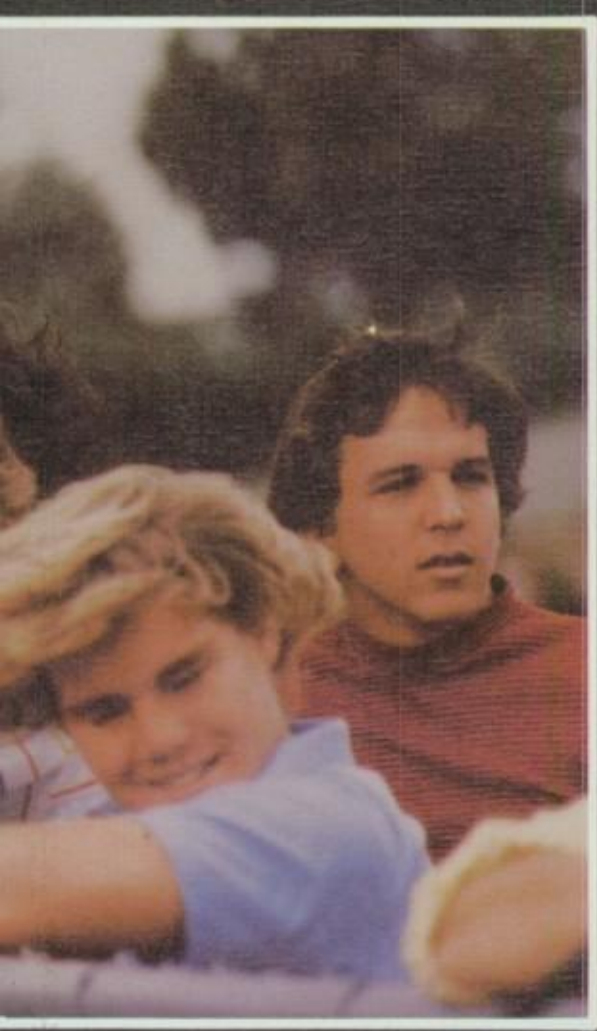
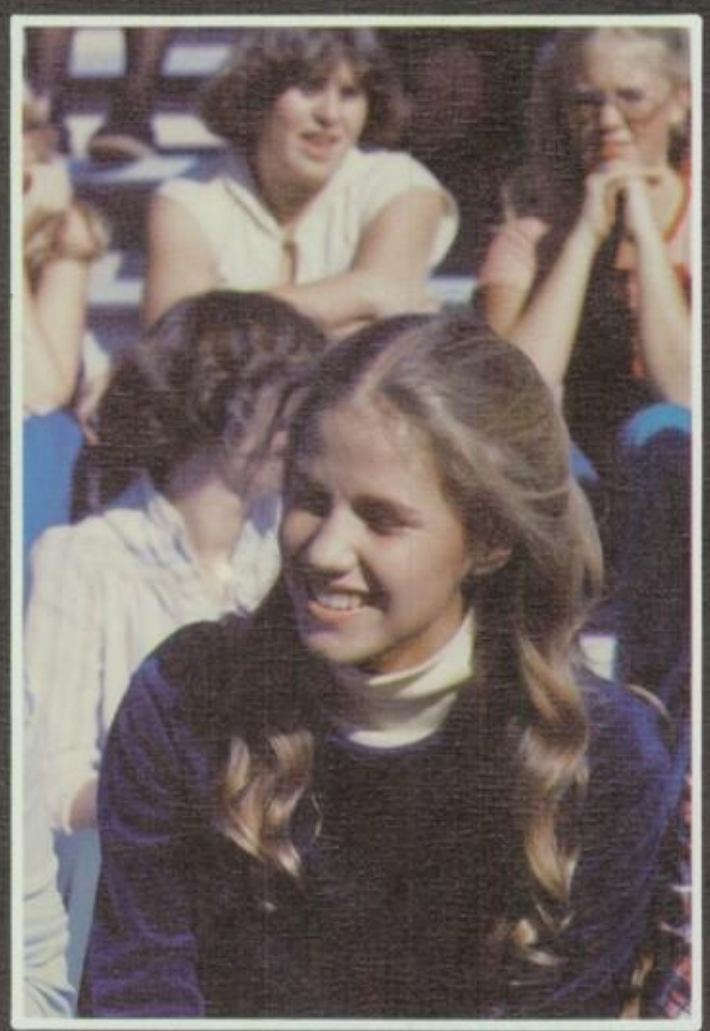
Searching for individuality,
yet yearning for momentary acceptance . . .
I discover a separate life
subtly interlaced with the security of others.

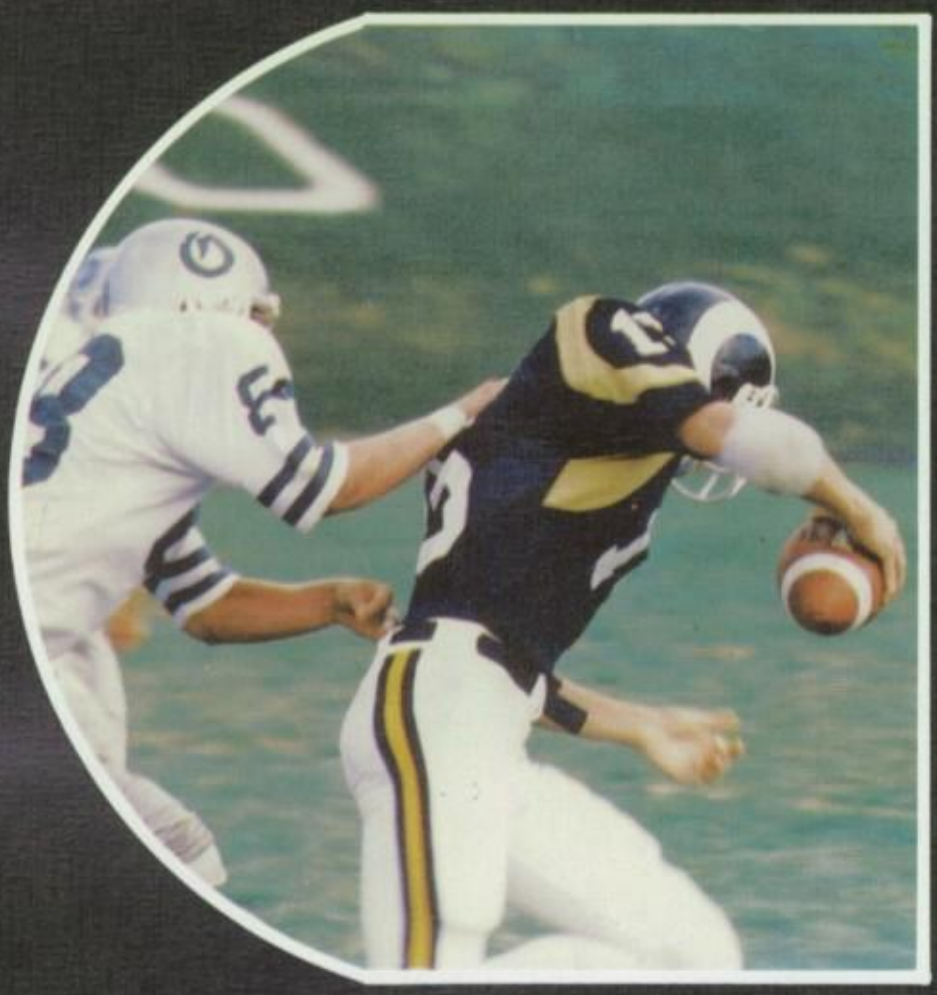
In a vision
of the day's golden warmth and bright reality,





we search.

Not only do our thoughts look back,



I seem to wander through the past, amid recollections of days woven into a tapestry of events. As each one unravels, I look and ponder — replaying the instance until I am satisfied with the retouch only I can see.

TUXEDO JUNCTION

1231 East 3300 South

"IT ALL COMES TOGETHER AT THE JUNCTION"

FROST'S
Foothill Vilage

"GET FROSTBITTEN"

Laughing and working together
Screaming at each other
While under pressure Working our tails off just to find that our best needs improving Hoping as each page progresses that it will turn out as expected and touch someone Meeting new people and forming new friendships Enjoying once-a-month birthday cakes and twice-a-year parties.

We found ourselves reaching goals and accomplishing deadlines never imagined possible — no matter how late they were. Encouragement and patience from understanding parents, Borge Anderson, Harold Peterson and many others helped us succeed. We thank a Taylor Publishing Company Consultant who made us look at the brighter side of life. Every time Jay Ward looked at our desperate faces he would burst out in uncontrollable laughter. How can we express our appreciation for Dean Collett, a dedicated sponsor who helped us by letting us do it ourselves? Not only was he our advisor but he soon became our best friend. Bringing together 24 people whose personalities and interest varied from A to Z seemed almost impossible, but they truly made this year . . .
The Dawn of a Sunbright Day and . . . The Dusk of an Awakening.
